FREE SPEECH vs REGULATED SPEECH

Strengthening the pillars of democracy

VII TRANSATLANTIC SUMMIT

ARTICLE 19 UDHR

Everyone has the right to freedom of opinion and expression; this right includes freedom to hold opinions without interference and to seek, receive and impart information and ideas through any media and regardless of frontiers.

This Transatlantic Summit will bring together Members of Parliament and political leaders from Europe, Africa and the Americas to engage in a high-level dialogue on freedom of expression as a foundational pillar of democratic societies.

The discussions will address the role of public institutions, parliaments, academia, culture, and international organizations in safeguarding this fundamental right, particularly in light of the ongoing debate surrounding the implementation and implications of the European Union's Digital Services Act.

The Political Network for Values is a global platform of political leaders committed to advancing public policies rooted in human dignity, the protection of fundamental freedoms, the culture of life, and the family as the cornerstone of society.
